The Crash occurred Sunday evening August 8th around 1600 MDT less than half way up the Jeep Trail on the western slope of Blanca Peak of the Sangre De Cristo Mountains a part of the Rocky Mountains. The location of the crash was at 9500 feet of elevation, and was reported that the victim was going down the mountain after an unsuccessful attempt at reaching the upper end of the Jeep Trail on his slightly used 1985 Yamaha Big Wheel. "It just slipped out from under me and my right ankle was crushed between the mountain and the luggage rack of the motorcycle." Was the only comment by the victim, who requested that he not be identified because of personal embarrassment.

So you want to be an airline pilot?

Doudney News and Publishing Company

- A drunk, professional wrestler boarded an aircraft in San Francisco and was subsequently asked to disembark because of his physical condition and obvious signs of creating potential trouble. He left the aircraft as requested, but became combative in the jetway and several people, including police, were required to help restrain him. (June 1996).
- Shortly after takeoff on a flight from Savannah, Georgia, to Charlotte, North Carolina, a man created an altercation with other passengers and flight attendants after his demands for alcohol were not met. During this episode, he tried to break into the cockpit. He also grabbed the lead flight attendant and threw her against the cockpit door, then attempted to throw her off the plane through an emergency door. The perpetrator was eventually sentenced to 51 months in prison, 200 hours of community service and was ordered to pay $611 in fuel costs. (July 1996)
- On a flight from Frankfurt, Germany, to Dulles International Airport, a German tourist complained that the flight attendant had bumped him with the food cart. The flight attendant apologized, but the passenger nevertheless threw the flight attendant against the emergency exit and hit him on the head and face. Three other passengers pulled the attacker off the flight attendant. (c. 1996)

BELIVE IT? OR NOT?

President Bill Clinton

Aug. 17, 1998

CLINTON: Good evening.

This afternoon in this room, from this chair, I testified before the Office of Independent Counsel and the grand jury.

I answered their questions truthfully, including questions about my private life, questions no American citizen would ever want to answer.

Still, I must take complete responsibility for all my actions, both public and private. And that is why I am speaking to you tonight.

As you know, in a deposition in January, I was asked questions about my relationship with Monica Lewinsky. While my answers were legally accurate, I did not volunteer information.

Indeed, I did have a relationship with Miss Lewinsky that was not appropriate. In fact, it was wrong. It constituted a critical lapse in judgment and a personal failure on my part for which I am solely and completely responsible.

But I told the grand jury today and I say to you now that at no time did I ask anyone to lie, to hide or destroy evidence or to take any other unlawful action.

I know that my public comments and my silence about this matter gave a false impression. I misled people, including even my wife. I deeply regret that.

I can only tell you I was motivated by many factors. First, by a desire to protect myself from the embarrassment of my own conduct.

I was also very concerned about protecting my family. The fact that these questions were being asked in a politically inspired lawsuit, which has since been dismissed, was a consideration, too.

In addition, I had real and serious concerns about an independent counsel investigation that began with private business dealings 20 years ago, dealings I might add about which an independent federal agency found no evidence of any wrongdoing by me or my wife over two years ago.

The independent counsel investigation moved on to my staff and friends, then into my private life. And now the investigation itself is under investigation.

This has gone on too long, cost too much and hurt too many innocent people.

Now, this matter is between me, the two people I love most -- my wife and our daughter -- and our God. I must put it right, and I am prepared to do whatever it takes to do so.

Nothing is more important to me personally. But it is private, and I intend to reclaim my family life for my family. It's nobody's business but ours.

Even presidents have private lives. It is time to stop the pursuit of personal destruction and the prying into private lives and get on with our national life.

Our country has been distracted by this matter for too long, and I take my responsibility for my part in all of this. That is all I can do.

Now it is time -- in fact, it is past time to move on.

We have important work to do -- real opportunities to seize, real problems to solve, real security matters to face.

And so tonight, I ask you to turn away from the spectacle of the past seven months, to repair the fabric of our national discourse, and to return our attention to all the challenges and all the promise of the next American century.

Thank you for watching. And good night.

Editors comment;

Sex isn't the issue here, there are many great people in history who have had problems with infidelity. King David for an example. But he made a complete confession He was truly sorry and wept with much regret. Even Jimmy Swaggart when confronted with his sin wept with much regret. I see little regret here, on the contrary I see nothing more than arrogance. The arrogance is so great that this President expects us to believe his LIE, the same lie that he obviously has convinced himself is true.

The most discouraging and frightening thing here isn't that this President will probably get away with this obvious act of perjury, or that we will have to put up with Al Gore for the rest of this term. What's really scary is that history seems to be coming full circle for America. We are following very closely, other great civilizations of the past. Civilizations that have ignored the Direction of a Loving, and Forgiving God, but have instead allowed their own arrogance to bring them to destruction. Is this President simply a reflection of our own moral conscience, and attitude? Is America on the eve of destruction?

Funny Story;

Sitting on the side of the highway waiting to catch speeding drivers, a State Police Officer sees a car puttering along at 22 MPH. He thinks to himself, "This driver is just as dangerous as a speeder!" So he turns on his lights and pulls the driver over. Approaching the car, he notices that there are five old ladies - two in the front seat and three in the back - wide eyed and white as ghosts.

The driver, obviously confused, says to him, "Officer, I don't understand, I was doing exactly the speed limit! What seems to be the problem?"

"Ma'am," the officer replies, "you weren't speeding, but you should know that driving slower than the speed limit can also be a danger to other drivers."

"Slower than the speed limit? No sir, I was doing the speed limit exactly ...Twenty-two miles an hour!" the old woman says a bit proudly.

The State Police Officer, trying to contain a chuckle explain to her that "22" was the route number, not the speed limit.

A bit embarrassed, the woman grinned and thanked the officer for pointing out her error.

"But before I let you go, Ma'am, I have to ask...Is everyone in this car OK? These women seem awfully shaken and they haven't muttered a single peep this whole time,"the officer asks.

"Oh, they'll be all right in a minute officer. We just got off Route 119."

Two passengers boarded a flight at Los Angeles International Airport and became disruptive after being denied a request for an upgrade to the first class section of the airplane. One of the passengers went to the galley and grabbed two coffee pots, which he wielded as weapons, and then poured hot coffee on two flight attendants, causing second degree burns on the hand of one of the crew members. The female passenger banged on the cockpit door yelling that she had a gun. (July 1997)

•On a U.S. air carrier flight from Buenos Aires to JFK, a flight attendant was assaulted by a passenger in the aft galley of a 767 and suffered a broken vertebrae. The assaulting passenger was restrained by other flight attendants and members of the cockpit crew. The flight diverted to San Juan, Puerto Rico, where the passenger and the injured flight attendant were removed. (c. 1996)

•A 32-year old Algerian with an expired visa boarded a DC-10 from Detroit to Frankfurt, Germany, and about four hours from arrival attacked a flight attendant by choking her and screaming "to Africa." She escaped and he then attacked a female passenger yelling "whore" repeatedly. He had concealed his dinner knife in a blanket and was extremely intoxicated after consuming another passenger's bottle of duty-free liquor. The subject was subdued by military police and passengers who grappled with him for several hours after getting restraints on him. The meal service was canceled in the back of the aircraft due to the passengers' excrement, which contaminated the aft food service area. Several crew members sustained minor injuries and their military police's uniforms were ruined. The subject became extremely violent, appeared insane and out of control during the entire incident. He was apparently trying to hijack the aircraft, but was too intoxicated to consummate the act of taking the hostage and getting control of the flight. Upon arrival in Frankfurt, the Captain was denied access to police and the subject was released by German authorities after three hours. (October 1996)

BILL OF NO-RIGHTS

The following was written by State Representative Mitchell Kaye from Cobb County, GA.

We, the sensible people of the United States, in an attempt to help everyone get along, restore some semblance of justice, avoid any more riots, keep our nation safe, promote positive behavior and secure the blessings of debt-free liberty to ourselves and our great-great-grandchildren, hereby try one more time to ordain and establish some common sense guidelines.... We hold these truths to be self-evident: that a whole lot of people were confused by the Bill of Rights and...require a Bill of No-Rights.

ADDRESS CORRECTION REQUESTED

This is an experiment in creating a newsletter on a regular basis. I intend to prick your interest, and if I have send me your generous contributions. The address is listed below. No contribution more than a dollar per issue will be accepted, so I'm looking forward to hearing from you

I'm not in this for the profit, but aim to test my ability a little. I normally have more mobility than at present, I am the Pilot that crashed on Blanca Peak, and this has left me house bound. Linda occasionally feels sorry for me and takes me out to lunch. My crash brings to mind an old saying of Pappa Wheelie's and that is; "Riding Motorcycles is very much like chasing married women. About the time you get good at it you get killed." If that is the case I'm glad I'm not good at either past time, and can't think I'll be taking the bike to the mountain anytime soon. Chasing women is something us 52-year-old guys should not do married women or not!

School has started for Ashley, she is a Senior this year, and Andy is still enrolled at U of HK, but doesn't seem to be learning much. Linda is mostly in a state due to being married to me for so long, and all three Schnauzers are in good shape with the exception of the oldest one, she has broken a toe. Best wishes and God's blessing on each of you.
